Privacy Policy

Arms of Hope wants you to feel totally comfortable using our site, so our privacy policy is very simple: when you use our website, we will not intentionally collect any personally identifiable information, unless there is a clear opt-in to do so.

Use of Communications

We value and encourage open communications and welcome feedback on our products. Therefore if you decide to email us personally identifiable information (such as your name, email address, information about you or any other content that you may send to us) via our site, we may retain your communication and will only share its content with third parties if compelled to do so by competent courts. We won't spam you or sell this information.

Site Analytics

Arms of Hope does use a site analytics service that allows us to monitor how people are using our site. While this analytics software does track the IP address of a user, it does not associate that IP address with any other data on the site. We use this software purely to see where users of the site are coming from and to monitor site usage at various times of the day. All of this is so that we may provide enhanced services in the future.

Changes To This Privacy Policy

Arms of Hope is committed to protecting your privacy and we'll keep looking for new ways to do that. Arms of Hope reserves the right to revise the policy as it sees fit from time to time. If a change is made to the policy it will be reflected in an update to the software package(s) and you will be asked if you agree to the changes upon installation of the update.